Code Analysis

Code already provided

In this project we were provided a process generator and a common header file. The process generator is a "Black Box" that creates processes and asks for them to be run.

The common header file provided global data types, global functions, the PCB block definition, and function definitions.